

Marc S. Williams, M.D. is the Director of the Intermountain Healthcare Clinical Genetics Institute in Salt Lake City, Utah, where he also runs a clinic for evaluation of adults with mental retardation, birth defects, and genetic disorders. Dr. Williams is certified by the American Board of Medical Genetics in clinical genetics. Previously he was a clinical geneticist at Gundersen Lutheran Medical Center in La Crosse, Wisconsin, where he was also the associate medical director of the Gundersen Lutheran Health Plan. His major interest is the role of medical genetics in health care delivery. Dr. Williams is currently Chair of the Committee on the Economics of Genetic Services of the American College of Medical Genetics and serves on the subcommittee on Health Care Systems of the Section on Genetics of the American Academy of Pediatrics.